Evaluation notes

Education system summary:

The Federative Republic of Brazil is located in South America. It is the largest country in the South American continent. The education in Brazil is divided in several levels; starting with Educação Infantil (Early Childhood Education) for children up to 6 years of age; Ensino Fundamental (Elementary Education), subdivided into phase one (grades 1-4) and phase two (grades 5-8); and Ensino Médio (High school). Ensino Fundamental (Elementary Education) is mandatory from 7 to 14 years of age and has a minimum duration of 8 years. Access to Ensino Médio (High school) requires completion of Ensino Fundamental (Elementary Education). Finishing Ensino Fundamental gives access to Institutions of Higher Education. Both Secondary and Higher Education Institutions are recognized by the Ministério da Educação (Ministry of Education).

Information about the university/college or school if applicable

Professor Vicente Ferreira Dos Santos State School, as the name implies, is a State funded high school. This school is located in the city of Araras, which is part of the Sao Paulo state of Brazil.

About D&T Evaluations

Just like D&T Translations, D&T Evaluations is a division of Global Hand Consulting LLC, formed in NJ, USA in 2015. D&T Evaluations was created to meet the demand for credential evaluations that were often requested along with our certified academic translations. Having translated tens of thousands of academic documents, we have accumulated a good deal of experience with and insight into the educational systems around the world. D&T Evaluations partners up with professional credential evaluators who, among other places, work in offices of international admissions at major universities around the United States. All of our partner credential evaluators hold memberships in well-known associations in the field of credential evaluation and international education such as NAFSA, AACRAO, TAICEP etc.
